Going to Court?

Achieving the best outcomes

Criminal Law

If you're charged with a criminal offence, the Court process can seem complex and bewildering. Get advice from one of our experienced criminal law solicitors before attending Court for the first time, regardless of whether you intend to plead guilty or not guilty. We commonly represent people charged with assault, stealing, malicious damage and drug offences.

Traffic Matters

Whether you are charged with a drink driving offence or wish to appeal a suspension of your licence, traffic matters can have a significant impact on your livelihood and family responsibilities. Let us use our extensive experience to ensure you obtain the best possible outcome in your circumstances.

AVOs

Applications for Apprehended Violence Orders may be made where violence has occurred in the context of a domestic relationship. It is crucial that you obtain proper legal advice before consenting to an AVO because these Orders can impact on many areas of your life, including family law proceedings, your current and future employment and any firearms licences you might hold. Knowledge of all your options is essential.

Trusted Advice

At Caldwell Martin Cox, we provide each client with personal attention and understanding as we guide them through the process, before and after the Court appearance.
